The Aspen Modern event is presented by the Modernism + Recent Past Program and Mountains Plains Office of the National Trust for Historic Preservation, in partnership with the City of Aspen Community Development Department, the Aspen Art Museum, the Aspen Institute, the Aspen Historical Society and Spring Board Aspen, with support from the National Endowment for the Arts and the Henry Luce Foundation.

The National Trust for Historic Preservation invites the public to a free event celebrating the history and debating the future of Aspen's post World War II architecture and landscapes. Join a diverse panel of experts as they share fresh perspectives on the critical, and often controversial, issues facing the future of Aspen's 20th century heritage. Architectural historian and author Chad Randl will moderate a panel featuring State Senator Gail Schwartz; Harry Teague, AIA of Harry Teague Architects; historian and Aspen Times columnist Tony Vagneur; and others. After hearing the panelists, add your voice to the conversation during this public forum.
